

Concerning the Localism campaign or the expansion of LPFM stations and giving preference to these or current FM translator service:

I would encourage the FCC to give preference to stations that are currently in operation and have expended money to broadcast at their current frequencies. Such a station is K-LOVE which I listen to on 88.9 out of Oklahoma City. This station serves my listening preferences by providing a positive message through music and there is no comparable station in the area. Many stations have come and gone in this market, but this station has remained a positive influence through Christian programming. There is no reason to believe that a LPFM station would provide this same format. K-LOVE serves the community by offering free event advertising to non-profit organizations and further serves the community by promoting family oriented programming.

By charter of K-LOVE, it is listener support. I am one of those supporters. As such, I am opposed to any changes that would jeopardize the ability of K-LOVE to continue to broadcast on its current FM translator at 88.9.

Thank you
